Dear all,

Thank you for your time today. I would appreciate if you can share the requests/type of questions you received from the media. Our communications office would like to get a better understanding of the type of questions we need to address to facilitate a response.

With respect to PI questions, our communication colleagues suggested we direct PIs to the link below. I pasted below some of the common questions and responses.

At this moment, NSF is posting updates and guidance on this site <https://new.nsf.gov/executive-orders>. NSF will be updating this page with additional information. Please feel free to submit your questions to this webform.

Have the NSF merit review criteria changed? No, NSF continues to apply the statutorily required Intellectual Merit and Broader Impacts review criteria, as well as any solicitation-specific review criteria.

I submitted a proposal recently. When can I expect it to be reviewed? Proposal processing and review activities have resumed and are ongoing.

Are there any modifications to the review process as a result of the executive orders? As per the agency's normal practice, program directors manage the review process. Panelists are expected to focus their discussions on evaluating the merit of the proposals under consideration. The review criteria remain consistent. Guidance on reviews and panel summaries has not changed. Program directors do not comment on activities outside of the purview of the panel. The reviews and panel summaries are advisory to NSF. As has always been the practice at NSF, we will consider this advisory material in conjunction with agency-wide guidance and applicable federal standards when making funding decisions.

I was supposed to be on a panel recently and it was postponed. When will it be rescheduled? NSF is rescheduling, as appropriate, virtual, hybrid and in-person proposal review panels that were previously postponed.

Will funding opportunities that have been recently archived become available again? If so, when? The community will be notified through normal channels as funding opportunities are made available.

Thank you!

Dear all,

Thank you for your emails and your patience, we are still adjusting to the layoffs and changes in workload. It will be great if we can have a short meeting that I can give you an update on the review status and potential next steps. Hopefully, I got the time zones right, here some available times, let me know if any of these work for you and I can send a zoom invite.

Importance: High

Dear EEID panelists and Agency colleagues,

As you may have seen in the news, NSF released a large number of employees from Federal service today. With regret, we are cancelling the EEID panels this week due to the impact of these NSF-wide layoffs. I am sending my deepest and sincere apologies to all of you; I know we all have worked very hard on this panel. We want to further assure you that the effort you have already put in to reviewing these projects is not lost; it will be incredibly influential in our ability to move forward any of these projects for support. Indeed, if you have reviewed a project but not yet uploaded your review, we would still greatly value that input. Your feedback and work up to this point will not only contribute to funding decisions but, of course, will also be invaluable to the project PIs.

We are also sending our support to all our dedicated friends and colleagues across US agencies who lost their jobs or their close colleagues last week and today.

We will be in touch with you with more details as soon as we know them. NSF will continue to provide updates on this site: NSF Implementation of Recent Executive Orders | NSF - National Science Foundation. There are some new details/ FAQs posted within the last 24 hours. Please monitor this site for relevant updates.

Thank you for all your work for science, your students, agencies, and the scientific community.

Best Regards,

██████, on behalf of the EEID Team

Dear EEID colleagues,

I'm writing to reaffirm that at this moment our EEID review panel is proceeding as planned. Thank you for your patience! Our EEID panel will convene virtually on Feb 19-21, 2025, starting at 8am ET and we will have two separate virtual panels. Attached is a preview of the agenda and our discussion order for each panel. I will be sending the final version of these documents and additional information including zoom links next Monday.

Looking forward to our EEID panels,

Best Regards

Dear EEID Panelist,

Thank you again for serving on the EEID panel. As you may know, NSF has paused merit review panels through February 10 to allow the agency time to develop guidance and ensure compliance with recent Executive Orders. NSF is sharing all updates with the community here: NSF Implementation of Recent Executive Orders | NSF - National Science Foundation).

As of right now, the EEID panel is still scheduled for February 19 – 21, 2025. Given the uncertain situation, we feel it is prudent to shift to a fully virtual panel in case the meeting needs to be rescheduled on short notice. If we receive guidance to reschedule the EEID panel, we will let you know right away.

Please cancel your hotel and flight reservations. To cancel your flight please contact CI Travel, the travel management contractor for NSF, at [REDACTED]

In the meantime, please continue to work on your reviews as noted in the assignments and in the PES system. Additional details about how to review an EEID proposal were attached in the reviewer instructions with your assignments, but please feel free to reach out if you have questions.

Thank you so much for your dedication to the EEID program and your work thus far in the merit review process. We appreciate your patience and flexibility as we navigate this changing situation.

If you have questions, please let us know.
Best Regards,

Dear EEID Partners,

Hope you are doing well,

As of now, the NSF has paused all panel meetings scheduled prior to February 10. We expect further guidance at the end of this week concerning panels later in the month. While we are permitted to continue plans for our panel later in February, it seems prudent to shift to planning for a fully virtual panel to minimize the potential disruptions for panelists and partners who may be in a travel status if the panel may need to be rescheduled. We will be providing updates to our panelists as well.

Unfortunately, at this time, we're not able to add any information other than what NSF is communicating here: NSF Implementation of Recent Executive Orders | NSF - National Science Foundation. There are some new details/ FAQs posted within the last 24 hours. Please monitor this site for relevant updates. Thanks so much for your patience and understanding.

Best Regards,
